The most important information

In the StartBook, we gathered the most important information and addresses relevant to new students of WULS-SGGW. Due to the current decisions of the Ministry of Science and Higher Education and sanitary recommendations regarding the increased epidemic risk, some assumptions may change. For current information on the functioning of the University, see the website www.sggw.pl/en/ and the websites of the Faculties.

Classes at the Warsaw University of Life Sciences will start on October 1 and for epidemic reasons they will be carried out in a hybrid form, i.e. both stationary and remotely.

For first-year students, all laboratory, clinical and practical classes will be carried out in a traditional way, in compliance with the applicable sanitary regime.

In order to ensure the highest safety standards, all lectures at the 1st and 2nd degree studies, as well as those classes, the implementation of which will not require a direct meeting with the lecturer and access to specialized laboratories, will be held on-line.

Meetings with deans and trainings will be organized for newly admitted students. During these meetings, information on the principles of study and organizational matters will be presented.

The official inauguration of the 2020/2021 academic year will take place on September 30 at 10 am. Due to epidemic reasons, we invite you to watch the on-line broadcast, which will be available on the YouTube platform of the Warsaw University of Life Sciences.

Welcome to WULS-SGGW!

You are about to embark on a great adventure. Let's start with the most important information.

01

On-line dean's offices/On-site dean's offices

There is an online dean's office at the Warsaw University of Life Sciences, which allows students 24/7 access to their data. There are also stationary dean's offices at each faculty, where you can receive information on important matters, e.g. timetable, eHMS system or rules of semester settlement. You can find addresses of all dean's offices and telephone numbers on the website: https://www.sggw.pl/en/contact__/deanery_.

Electronic Student ID

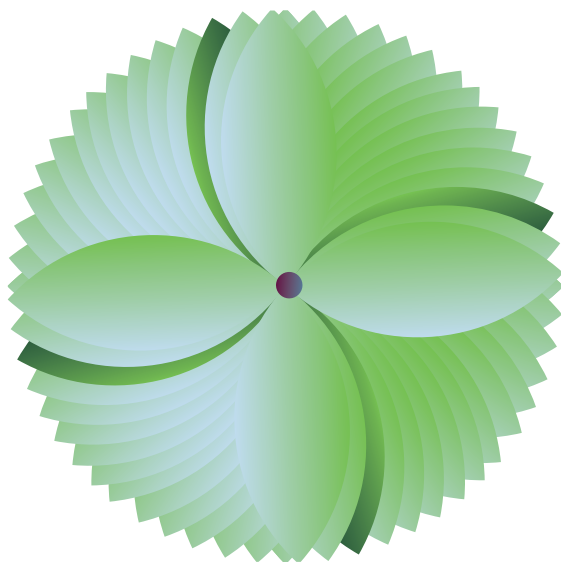

To receive a student ID, log in to the on-line dean's office (ehms.sggw.pl) and pay a fee. Your photo will be transferred automatically from recruitment system. Dean's office will contact you when your ID is ready. Regularly it takes about 2 weeks.

Each student of WULS-SGGW additionally receives an Electronic Student ID, which also functions as a library card of the Warsaw University of Life Sciences, and an access card to computer rooms and a Warsaw City Card (Warszawska Karta Miejska).

At WULS-SGGW, apart from the Main Library, there are faculty libraries, too. The student card serves also as the library card. You can find there approx. 550 thousand. volumes of books, magazines and special collections saved in paper form and approx. 300 thousand electronically stored units. Students and employees of WULS-SGGW have access to the world's scientific achievements on an ongoing basis.

Detailed information on the functioning of libraries can be found on the website: <http://bg.sggw.pl/index.php/en/>

Scholarships and allowances

WULS-SGGW students can apply for various scholarships, including research scholarships, social aid, scholarships for students with special needs, and allowances. Applications need to be submitted individually.

All the necessary information is available on the website: www.sggw.pl/dla-studentow/informacje-formalno-prawne/pomoc-materialna

Student mobility

Erasmus + enables WULS-SGGW students to participate in international exchanges, and its range and goals are constantly expanding. The program enables studying at selected foreign universities, gaining professional experience during foreign student internships and practical application of knowledge gained during graduate internships. WULS-SGGW students can use all three options.

More information can be found here: https://www.sggw.pl/en/educational-programs/erasmus-llp_. As part of the Erasmus Student Network, we also care for the integration of incoming students with the academic community, so that each incoming student receives support and can easily settle in in the campus of the Warsaw University of Life Sciences. More information can be found here: www.sggw.esn.pl.

MOSTAR is a program that enables students to pursue part of their studies outside their home university. WULS-SGGW cooperates in this area with 9 Polish universities. More information can be found at <https://www.sggw.pl/en/education/rodzaje-studiow/intercollegiate-ndash-mostar>

WULS-SGGW students , self-government

The Self-Government Center is located in the Feniks Student House.

The main goal of the Students' Self-Government of the Warsaw University of Life Sciences is to represent the students' interests at the university forum, in contacts with the self-governments of other universities and in all matters related to students of the Warsaw University of Life Sciences. Its members try to create the best possible conditions for the development of student culture, which gives the university a special character. The Self-government is, above all, an adventure, a challenge and a place where you can pursue your passions.
